

C2ST: 0.85

11.41s

A scatter plot on a dark blue background showing two classes of data points. One class is represented by red points, forming two distinct clusters. The other class is represented by light gray points, forming a long, diagonal band that separates the two red clusters. The red clusters are located in the lower-left and upper-right areas, while the gray band runs from the bottom-left towards the top-right.